

The Way

God provided instructions about the way to do work. Paul sent young Timothy a letter with instructions about how to work. He also included the danger that comes from the love of money—a common motivation throughout history, and especially in capitalistic cultures like North America.

Most of us have multiple motivations for the work we do, such as getting paid, filling a need, helping others, doing something well, pressure from others, filling time, doing something cooperatively, getting a promotion, etc. What are your motivations for your work now? What are your motivations for the day you will work on a full-time basis? Put your motivations on one side of the line or the other. Some might be mixed.
